Dear Sister;

I have been giving it some thought and I wish to give you my opinion but after all I will let the final decision with you and will not say anything to Mother until you wish me to.

This war will in all probability last a year or two yet. and in that time both of you may meet some one else and then be sorry, and wish you had your freedom. and when the war is over, Jerry may have to go to some foreign land perhaps for five or ten years, which would leave you practically the same as a widow financially. You would have a hard of them have to live and the things some of them have to go through, is unbearable even to the strongest and that is the result of a lot of soldiers, from the former war, who are now at Coatsville asylum of whom I know a few.

So my advice is better wait than be sorry.

But you must decide for yourself, no matter what happens you are still my loving daughter and I will do all I can to make you happy, and for your general welfare.
After all remaining free till this is all settled will be no catastrophe.
I think you are educated enough to see into time of it, and in lonesomeness perhaps worse and when he would come back he may be changed so much that it would be impossible to live with him.

A short absence makes the heart grow fonder, but a prolonged absence changes both parties involved to such a degree that living together afterward would be intolerable.

He may come back a physical wreck and be a burden on you the rest of your life.

If love does not last while single, the length of time till you can be permanently together, it will never last if married.

It seems his parents died while quite young, and that is not a very good back ground for a long and strenuous life, that he will have to live while on foreign soil. The life seems the advice I am giving you. It is no trouble to get married, but better be dead than to get Married to a man you cannot live with even if you want to.

You only have one life so cherish it and make the best success of it if you know how, we just get out of it
what we put into it
